Delivery Method: Classroom and practical

Recognised by: Biffa Waste

Prerequisites: For full novice training and because this course is NOT for road use Biffa only require trainees to hold a car driving license as minimum requirement.

To shorten a full novice course Biffa would decide on candidates experience and reduce the duration accordingly.

Introduction

Biffa Waste require this training to be thorough and whilst previously being completed “in house” by an internal trainer, this is now not possible and decided that training should be standardised through Lantra Awards.

Overview in brief

The course is designed to give the employer confidence in their employee’s ability to operate a bulk carrier on employers site only.

This will be achieved by training and theory and practical assessment at the end of the training duration.

The finer details

Biffa Waste employees are required to develop and maintain their skills in line with company policies and procedures.

This course does not require candidates to hold an HGV license whilst operating on Biffa Waste sites, if vehicles are to operate on the public highway then employees will require the relevant HGV license.

The course materials have been supplied and permission given for use by Biffa Waste to Keith Cook Training Limited. The course will be adapted to meet standard Lantra ITC course outlines.
